A Family Affair

The book is written by sisters Kate Jacobs and Liz Johnson, who have been quilting together for over 25 years. They grew up in a family that loved to gather around the table and share stories, and their quilts reflect this close-knit bond.

In Month of Sundays, Kate and Liz share their favorite quilts, along with stories about the people who inspired them. Some of the quilts are traditional patterns that have been passed down through generations, while others are more modern and whimsical. Each quilt has a unique story to tell, and it is these stories that make this book so special.
