

The American Experience: Lori Wilde, A Trailblazing Pioneer Woman

Lori Wilde was a remarkable woman who lived an extraordinary life. She was born in 1844 in New York State, and her family moved to Iowa when she was a child. In 1867, she married John Wilde, and the couple moved to the Dakota Territory. There, they homesteaded a claim in the Badlands, and Lori became one of the first white women to live in that harsh and unforgiving environment.

Lori and John Wilde built a sod house on their claim, and they worked tirelessly to improve their land. Lori was a skilled seamstress, and she made clothing for her family and neighbors. She also raised chickens and a garden, and she helped John with the farming. Life was hard on the Dakota frontier, but Lori was a determined woman, and she never gave up.
