The Grip of Addiction

"I grew up in a loving family, but my life took a dark turn when I started experimenting with drugs and alcohol," shares Mary, a Total Deliverance survivor. "At first, it was just a way to escape from my problems, but soon it became a full-blown addiction."

Mary's addiction spiraled out of control, destroying her relationships, her health, and her self-respect. She lost her job, her home, and the trust of her loved ones. Desperation consumed her as she felt trapped in a cycle of self-destruction.

Finding a Lifeline

Mary began attending meetings regularly, immersing herself in the principles of faith, prayer, and community. She surrounded herself with people who understood her struggles and supported her journey.

"The Total Deliverance program provided me with the tools and resources I needed to break free from addiction," says Mary. "Through prayer, I learned to surrender my life to God and trust in His power to deliver me."

A Journey of Transformation

Mary's journey of recovery was not without its challenges. There were setbacks and moments of doubt, but she never gave up. She leaned on her faith, the support of her community, and the guidance of Total Deliverance leaders.

"Over time, I began to experience a profound transformation," shares Mary. "The chains of addiction that had once held me captive began to loosen. I gained strength, self-esteem, and a renewed sense of purpose."

Mary's relationships began to mend. She reconciled with her family, rebuilt her shattered self-respect, and found meaningful employment. Addiction no longer defined her life; instead, she embraced a new identity as a child of God, free from the bondage of addiction.
